Information on Request for Directed Study - English 5990

and Directed Study: Honors Program - English 4990 and Honors Project - English 4992

To the student:

The catalogue description for Directed Study notes that it may be taken for one to three credit hours to a maximum of six credits. Prerequisites to registering for English 5990 are at least a 3.0 honor point average, a proposal submitted in writing in the preceding term, and the consent of the instructor and chairperson. The Undergraduate Bulletin defines ENG 5990 as "Advanced work for superior students whose program cannot be adequately met by scheduled classes. Course requires substantial written work."

ENG 4990, available to students in the English Honors Program, may be taken for three to six credits to a maximum of twenty-four credits.

In the semester prior to registering for ENG 4990, 4992, or 5990, the student will submit to the Associate Chair of the Department of English a prospectus of at least one page that includes

- a date of application, student's name, and identification number;
- the academic term in which credit will be earned in ENG 4990, 4992, or 5990, section number, and the number of credits elected;
- the topic, theme, or problem to be investigated;
- the approach to the central concern;
- a list of readings and writing assignments;
- and the instructor's approval and date it was granted.
